Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

Advocacy - SCVAS is one of the most active and successful advocacy organizations in the San Francisco Bay Area. We work in cooperation with other stakeholders on issues that are critical to preserving birds, and wildlife, and habitat. Our Environmental Advocate, Shani Kleinhaus, and Environmental Action Committee (EAC) are currently working on many efforts which include promoting bird-safe design planning in the cities of Mountain View, Cupertino, and San Jose, engaging in state, regional, and local planning efforts to protect birds and wildlife, including writing countless letters to councils and agencies, speaking out at public meetings, and collaborating with decision makers across multiple jurisdictions. We are also preparing for Audubon Advocacy Day in June where we will work with legislators to increase state support for birds and wildlife habitat conservation. SCVAS has a long history of reviewing and commenting on many California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) documents as an important means of protecting birds and their habitats in the Bay Area. On a more intimate level, we work with local neighborhoods and institutions to implement bird-friendly landscapes and building design. In addition to our own advocacy work, we also support National Audubon Society yearly goals and projects, which impact bird habitats and open space conservation.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

Education - Wetlands Discovery Program has been inspiring young minds to become more involved in conservation since 1988. We aim to show students, grades 3-5, the value of wetlands and how they support the birds and other wildlife that inhabit them. By giving students practical hands-on experience with these concepts, we hope to encourage them to consider the impact they are having on the earth, and to determine ways that they can make a difference. Key conservation concepts are first covered through materials that are given to schoolteachers by SCVAS. SCVAS docents then visit the schools to reinforce these concepts by helping students work through activity stations that cover environmental topics ranging from bird adaptations and migration, to human impact and ecosystem interactions. Students are also trained to use binoculars in preparation for the field trip. On the day of the trip, docents lead students on a nature walk around local baylands and challenge them to apply their newfound knowledge. This experience allows students to see and understand how the concepts they have learned play out in the real world. We have also found through student evaluations that most have never been bird watching or visited a wetland prior to our program. After the program's completion, an overwhelming majority of students show an interest in bird watching at the wetlands again. Though we continue to receive positive feedback on this program, we regularly use student and teacher feedback to evaluate our curriculum and make changes to increase its effectiveness. We are also updating our materials to align them with Next Generation Science Standards. Beyond Wetlands Discovery Program, we offer several other education programs that are targeted towards both adults and families. These include beginning bird identification by sight and sound, nest box building workshops to create bird habitat, and customized programs on local birds and bird adaptations. In the summer of 2018 we launched Audubon Naturalist Training - a week-long summer course for high school students to learn outdoor skills and environmental stewardship. Graduates from this training program will continue to use their experience and knowledge as support naturalists at SCVAS field trips and events. We are proud to offer a variety of education programs to promote the enjoyment, understanding, and protection of birds and other wildlife, to audiences of all ages and backgrounds.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c:

Conservation - Our primary conservation program is managing a 200-acre site in San Jose with an established residence of breeding pairs of Burrowing Owls. A 5-year contract with the City of San Jose allows us to continue our work, including population surveys and reporting to the City, Santa Clara Valley Habitat Agency, US Fish & Wildlife, and California Fish & Wildlife agencies. Our biologists continue to create strategies to improve the habitat and increase breeding success. We also work collaboratively with other groups managing owl habitats across Santa Clara County and participate in ongoing plans to save the owl from being completely eliminated from the county. Working with major corporations and developers is crucial because development and residential growth are the main factors for loss of Burrowing Owl habitat. To that end, we are working with Google and the City of Mountain View to protect more Burrowing Owl habitat at Shoreline Park. Since 1997, SCVAS has led the Cavity Nesters Recovery Program, which trains volunteers to establish and monitor nest box trails for cavity-nesting birds across Santa Clara County. In addition, our program provides nest boxes for volunteers and uses the SCVAS name to collaborate with local organizations and authorities to install nest boxes at parks, open spaces, schools, businesses, etc. Nest boxes provide crucial habitat for 24 species of cavity-nesting birds in the county, who continue to suffer from increased habitat loss from urban development. In addition to serving as crucial habitat mitigation, nest boxes also give volunteers a way to monitor bird populations through weekly checks, where data on fledging, predation, and predation can be recorded. This data is submitted to the California Bluebird Recovery Program at the end of each nesting season, and then statewide data is available to scientists nationwide. In this statewide effort we were able to help over 20,000 birds fledge in the 2017 nesting season. The Cavity Nesters Recovery Program was responsible for over 3,400 of those fledges.
