Annual Report

Our mission

The Santa Clara Valley Audubon Society promotes the enjoyment, understanding, and protection of birds and other wildlife by engaging people of all ages in birding, education, and conservation.

Inspiring people to care about birds since 1925.

Growth and change

(June 1, 2021 — May 31, 2022)

This fiscal year we emerged from the worst pandemic in memory and fully reinstated our field trips and in-class activities. We saw a remarkable growth in membership, due in part, to our outreach efforts which included a bounty of new videos, online presentations and self-guided field trips.

The outdoor experience, with or without an experienced field trip leader, was what the community needed. Our members rushed to attend our guided walks and classes to find an active, flourishing and diverse community of like-minded folks. What better way to celebrate the re-opening of our social world!

With variants however, we soon found ourselves having to work in a hybrid fashion, with COVID protocols in effect and smaller functions. Still, it was clear the interest in local wildlife, birds and green spaces, was here to stay. We will continue to do whatever we can to meet the demand for classes and compelling speakers.

We saw change as well. Barry Langdon-Lassagne, completed his term as Board President at the end of this fiscal year. He will remain on the Board until the end of the current year's term to help with the transition. He and I worked on many projects together the past few years including a complete redesign of the SCVAS website, the creation and update of a new eBird-based county checklist of birds, and many other significant publications. I will miss Barry's help with these endeavors, but am so happy to welcome Bill Walker as our new President.

Bill has been on the Board for several years and comes with an impressive variety of skills and experiences that will be crucial to our Chapter's continued growth and relevance in the future. I especially look forward to his guidance as we make our way toward our Centennial Celebration—a perfect time to recognize the distance we have come since 1925 and the many possibilities ahead.

As in years past, the Wetlands Discovery Program remains a popular learning experience for elementary school children and their teachers. With a combined in-class session, an exciting wetland habitat field trip and follow up projects, the program introduces hundreds of kids to the wonders of our local wildlife each year.

The companion program for high schoolers in mid-county, the Oak Savanna Community Science Project, empowers kids to join in environmental science and contribute to our understanding of Coyote Valley. In preparation for the launch of the high school program, we have been conducting regular bird surveys and bioblitzes on a restricted property to assemble a meaningful curriculum.

In addition to these major youth education programs, we provide targeted programs and nature walks for individual classes, schools and organizations. Our adult education program offerings have also expanded with the addition of online classes. None of this would be possible without a dedicated team of trained volunteers, all of whom deserve our sincerest thanks.

TOM GREY

Our advocates continued to lead in protecting birds and wildlife in the rural and urban landscapes of Santa Clara County. We also work with city planners and city councils to increase awareness and understanding, and to develop practices that preserve and promote nature holistically in our environment.

In rural areas, we advocated for Burrowing Owls and newts, and we are making good progress. Plans for helping Burrowing Owls are moving forward in Coyote Valley. Plans to provide newts with safe passage to and from Lexington Reservoir are shaping up as well. To reduce fragmentation of wildlife habitat, we advocated successfully for a wildlife bridge in the Pacheco area (now in design). In a forum that examined lighting of creekside trails, we educated participants about the many ways in which artificial light at night interferes with the biological integrity of riparian ecosystems, how it impacts the migratory behaviors of birds, and how lighting fragments habitat for terrestrial and aquatic species. We continue to educate the public about the pervasive and harmful impacts to wildlife and humans, of lighting our environment at night.

Propelled by our advocacy, awareness of the importance of nature in our cities is increasing. Some Santa Clara County cities now require new developments to protect birds from collisions with glass, and to protect the night sky from light pollution.

Cupertino leads with a Bird Safety and Dark Sky ordinance, and other cities are making progress towards this goal. Mountain View has prioritized Biodiversity in the City's workplan, and is unique among cities in comprehensively considering the City's streets, parks, the urban forest and habitat areas in an effort to support and enhance habitat for birds and pollinators in the City.

We continue to focus on landscape-changing projects in our county. We are concerned and engaged with the proposed Pacheco Dam, Sargent Ranch Quarry, and continue to support the retirement and restoration of Lehigh quarry.

GARRETT LAU

Perhaps the most frequent request from our members, especially the newer members, is for us to offer more field trips and create more opportunities to attend. This is a good problem to have because it means people enjoy what we do... but it is understandably frustrating for those who are prevented from signing up because trips simply fill up too fast. This year we made dramatic progress in recruiting much needed leaders and scheduled additional outings. Our schedule is quite full now, but we continue to look for qualified leaders to meet the need we are seeing. As part of this effort, we also initiated a co-leader program which gave new leaders an opportunity to learn from the more experienced guides; this created the collaborative atmosphere we are so fortunate to have. We hope to continue expanding our field trip schedule and offering more accessible and young birder trips. Our dedicated field trip committee and knowledgeable leaders deserve around of applause!

Outreach

While SCVAS officially has three pillars, namely Education, Conservation and Birding, I've often felt that in reality the architecture was more complicated.

Every time we visit a classroom or present, every time we speak at city council meetings or work to inform the public about threats to the environment, every time we support a brand new birder on their first field trip or welcome someone to our events... we are held up by a foundation that supports our three pillars. That foundation is Outreach. It lifts every one of our Chapter's activities without ever being appropriately acknowledged, but it has long part of our mission. "Santa Clara Valley Audubon Society promotes..."

I'd like to shine a very bright light on our Outreach Committee and their efforts which have attracted new and enthusiastic members, volunteers, donors as well as media attention. They spread the word of our important work, inspire people to care about birds, and communicate our love of nature as we share our sense of wonder.

The Committee's work with Saved By Nature, Feminist Bird Club, and Let's Go Birding Together have helped us reach new communities eager to learn about what we do and share in our joy for the natural world outside our doors. We've added field trips designed to be accessible plus added accessibility information to our Self-Guided Field Trips.

All Around Town (backyard bird reports from our community) and our Backyard Bird of the Month series have done the same. We are excited to expand our partnerships with the diverse communities that make our county such a dynamic place to live, by working towards hosting more bilingual field trips and drop-in birding events, as well as seeking out more opportunities to build connections.

Notes on our fiscal year

Santa Clara Valley Audubon Society (SCVAS) ended the 2021 – 2022 fiscal year (June 1, 2021 to May 31, 2022) with a realized profit of $90,805 before taking into consideration unrealized losses on the organization's investment portfolio. Like many organizations, we saw the value of our investment portfolio decline this fiscal year. We continually monitor our portfolio and make adjustments as necessary to the asset allocation. We believe our portfolio is well-balanced overall and conservative. However, due to the adverse market conditions this year, our investment portfolio generated unrealized losses and we thus ended the year with a decrease in Net Assets of $88,893. When compared to the prior fiscal year, revenue from Donations was up by 23% and revenue from Grants & Contracts was up by 26%. Total Operating Expenses increased by 16% when compared to the prior fiscal year. Our ratio of program expenditures to total spending was 87% for the year up from 85% in the prior year. The organization continues to be very focused on devoting its resources to programs. Fundraising expense was just under 4% for the year which was slight reduction from the prior year. Our Balance Sheet continues to be strong with $1.6 million in Total Equity at May 31, 2022, a slight reduction of 5% from the balance in Total Equity at May 31, 2021 due to the unrealized losses in the investment portfolio.
